The East Bay Regional Park District is a limited-purpose governmental agency providing open space and regional parks, preserves, shorelines, recreation areas, trails and wildernesses for its 1,618,931 residents. Operating under the State Public Resources Code Sections 5500-5599, it is a tax-supported district governed by an elected Board of Directors. EBRPD was the first park district of its kind created in California. It was formally organized Nov. 6, 1934, after approval by the voters of seven cities in Alameda County. The first parks were opened Oct. 18, 1936. Major additions to the district were Eden Township in 1956; Washington Township in 1958; Contra Costa County in 1964; Pleasanton Township annexed in 1966 and Berkeley Woods and Park Hills District (Ala. Co.) in 1973.
